DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 10-46 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 1-19-06.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nelson (WO 01/85385) in view of Litwinski (6,257,479). Nelson teaches a friction stir welding tool having the claimed superabrasive material (abstract, figures and claim 7). Litwinski teaches the claimed support mandrel, which could be used on a pipe or tank (figures) in the claimed manner. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the welding system of Nelson to utilize the support mandrel in order to effectively weld cylindrical workpieces (see Litwinski col. 1, ll. 5-40).

Claims 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nelson and Litwinski as applied to claim 6 above, and further in view of Packer (WO 02/100586). Packer teaches the diffusion preventing material on the anvil (abstract). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the welding system of Nelson to utilize the diffusion material in order to prevent deformation due to friction stir welding (see Packer page 3, ll. 1-15).

Response to Arguments

Applicant argues Litwinski is not addressing the subject matter of a system that is capable of friction stir welding hard materials. The examiner agrees. This, however, does not mean that the section 103 rejection is improper. One cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986). In the instant case, the examiner does not rely on Litwinski to teach friction stir welding hard materials. Instead, the examiner relies on Nelson to teach this limitation.

Applicant argues Nelson in view of Litwinski does not teach performing "longitudinal friction stir welds" as required by claim 3. The examiner disagrees. During patent examination, the pending claims must be "given the broadest reasonable interpretation." Applicant always has the opportunity to amend the claims during prosecution, and broad interpretation by the examiner reduces the possibility that the claim, once issued, will be interpreted more broadly than is justified. In re Prater, 415 F.2d 1393, 1404-05, 162 USPQ 541, 550-51 (CCPA 1969). In the instant case, it is the examiner's position that the FSW apparatus of Nelson in view of Litwinski could make a series of welds along the nonplanar surface so that the resultant weld would be a longitudinal friction stir weld.

Art Unit: 1725

Applicant argues Nelson in view of Litwinski does not teach the claimed ID and OD as required by claim 6. The examiner disagrees. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., where the FSW tool contacts the ID and the mandrel contacts the OD) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
